This is quite an album. I was looking forward to hearing it due to the Modern Love connection (Miles Whittaker, of Pendle Coven and MLZ), but it sounds like nothing else on that label; even the cover art looks like it doesn't belong anywhere near Modern Love. The only way I can think to describe it is as a "dub dubstep" album, or maybe "ambient dub dubstep." The combination of sound is truly unique; there's plenty of bass on the very low end, and an extremely interesting use of samples and field recordings.

Style: Ambient, Dubstep

RIYL: Burial, MLZ
